NOVA SCOTIA'S COBEQUID PASS NOW OPENS:

"IT'S A JOY TO DRIVE."

Canadian Highways International Corporation's latest successful project, the 45km Cobequid Pass toll highway in Nova Scotia, opened on November 15 with a free-use period until tolling begins on December 1.

"Cobequid Pass is so smooth it feels like you are driving on a cushion of air," writes the Halifax Chronicle-Herald. "It is a joy to drive."

Cobequid Pass is a milestone in the growing trend towards privately financed public-private partnerships to develop infrastructure, says John Beck, President of Canadian Highways International Corporation.

As a result of the public-private partnership approach, Cobequid Pass was built more quickly, less expensively and with less risk to the public, Beck noted.

"We're proud of this made-in-Nova Scotia project and the dedication to quality demonstrated by our employees," Beck says.
